

Managers/Senior Managers (Technology Consulting)

The opportunity

BioQuest Advisory is at the exciting phase of our growth in Singapore and across APAC region and is looking for experienced consulting practitioners with strong technical skills in emerging technology in the area of Artificial Intelligence and Data Analytics to be part of our journey.

The role

You would be part of our management team to steer the growth of the firm.

Your role involves:

- Building and maintaining a strong sales pipeline
- Identifying opportunities in new emerging technology
- Working in close collaboration with our technology business partners
- Leading engagements and managing senior stakeholders
- Advice clients on leading and best practice
- Developing methodologies and tools with subject matter experts
- Growing and managing our talent pool

Your profile

- Good degree in any discipline with good knowledge of software development and programming
- Mandatory to have at least 4 years consulting experience in a reputable consulting firm
- Strong track record of delivering successful projects are large clients and your portfolio has to include technology projects
- Strong capabilities in understanding clients' business challenges and translating to sales opportunities
- Good technical understanding in emerging technology like Artificial Intelligence and have a deep understanding of how IT infrastructure and business operating models are impacted
- Able to guide and nurture junior consultants in both technical and consulting aspects
- Good communicator, able to think-on-your-feet, have a customer service attitude
- Demonstrate leadership skills and ability to effectively communicate and manage rapid change

Attributes we are looking for:

- Highly motivated with a passion in technology and consulting.
- Effective communicator and excellent problem solver who can prioritize workloads in a dynamic environment.
- Strong people skills to manage stakeholders and internal talents
- Genuine interest in a long-term career with a fast growing firm

Join us

At BioQuest, we value collaboration, teamwork and knowledge transfers. Our culture is friendly and supportive with a strong emphasis on ethics, diversity and inclusiveness.

As you grow with our firm, you would be able to leverage on your expertise to help transform our clients' business and gain experience for your personal professional development. We are committed to providing opportunities and coaching to grow our talents.

We are an equal opportunity employer.